Is Now On.

Everyone is delighted with our stock both as regards quality and prices.

I would like to suggest to our many town customers that they shop every day, either before noon or after four o'clock, and if possible any day but Saturday.

Our many rural customers cannot get to town early and they must go home early, so that we try to serve them while they are here. Our town customers will realize that they can be served more satisfactorily when we are not so rushed as during mid-day and Saturdays. If you must come in the noon hours come along. We'll be glad to see you.

We have a splendid stock of PAINTS, MOULDINGS, SHADES, and other housecleaning necessities.

Hydro-Electric Autocracy.

To the Editor of The Express:—

Dear Sir,—That I have not been well during the past week is my excuse for a short letter and a far more condensed review than I had intended, of the powers which the Hydro Electric Power Commission has obtained from the Legislature. It is perhaps sufficient to show that the Commission has absolute control of every detail in connection with the supply and use of electricity within the Province. The municipalities which supply the investment, those who operate any electrical plant and the people who use and pay for the service are under the complete domination of the Commission, even as to rates, and this is so whether the service is in connection with Hydro organization or by private or municipal enterprise. So far as I am aware there is only one class free of this autocratic control. This I will point out later.

As to the powers of the Commission:—

They are empowered to make regulations as to design, construction, installation, protection, operation, and maintenance in connection with the use of electrical energy by any person and may impose penalties for the breach of any such regulations.

The Commission may order any work to be done that they choose, and cut off electrical supply until their orders are complied with.

They may appoint inspectors to see that their orders are carried out and collect from the company, firm or individuals fees covering remuneration travelling and other expenses of such inspector. This inspector has full run of all lands, buildings or premises and any interference, with him, no matter how he may trespass, entails a fine of not less than $300.00, nor more than $500.00.

Any person receiving notice to make changes or alterations, who fails to comply within the time specified by the Commission, no matter what cost the order entails, is subject to a fine of not less than $300.00, or more than $500.00.

Any person failing to comply with an order from the Commission to cut off his supply of electricity is subject to a penalty of not less than $300.00, or more than $500.00.

Any person violating the provisions of the Hydro-Electric Power Commission Act, or any order of the Commission, receives a penalty of not less than $10.00 or more than $50.00, and in case of continuance not less than $10.00 nor more than $50.00 per day.

The above are a few of the provisions (condensed, of course), taken from the Rules and Regulations of Commission Act, or any order of the Commission, receives a penalty of not less than $10.00 or more than $50.00, and in case of continuance not less than $10.00 nor more than $50.00 per day.

The above are a few of the provisions (condensed, of course), taken from the Rules and Regulations of the Commission, a book of over 160 ordinary size pages. In addition there is the Commission's Standard Interpretation of Rates, ten pages additional, and the Hydro service contract itself. If anything has been omitted from these three documents, which would bind the consumer closer in the Commission's toils, or make the Commission itself more effectively immune to law and justice, I doubt not the Hydro legal department would pay a substantial honorarium to the party pointing it out to them.

That these comprehensive documents are a part of the contract which consumers are asked by the Hydro Commission to sign, is clear and unmistakeable. Read these clauses:—"All contracts shall be subject to the rules and regulations of the Hydro Electric Power Commission of Ontario and to the Standard Interpretation of Rates as used for electric service." "Should any disagreement arise out of the application or intent of these interpretations, it shall be referred to the Hydro Electric Commission of Ontario, whose decision shall be final." Scores of consumers in Napanee have been beguiled by the soft pedal accompaniment, that these restrictions do not affect Napanee patrons, and that the Commission never enforces them.

It doesn't appear to me comfortable, to put it mildly, to sign a document under which the party of the other part has power to impose penalties and may at his option on any flimsy excuse fine me $300.00 up to $500.00, or that I may be forced to spend a lot of money in alterations (supplies, labor, and inspection by the Commission at their own price), or be subject to a penalty of $50.00 a day. If the Commission never enforces these penalties, why did they have the Act amended at the session of 1916, to include these very provisions, and have them inserted in the contract now presented here for signature. It appears worse than the old shell game.

It is now beyond dispute that it is optional with each individual consumer whether he shall sign this contract or not. More regarding responsibility later.

All Hydro patrons in this Province are subject to this limitless, high handed autocracy. No wonder we read only yesterday that one municipality in the west has decided to release itself from the Hydro control and that the Government is gently but firmly putting on the brakes. It would appear that the

TOWN COUNCIL

Council Chamber, March 19th, 1917.

Council met in regular session on Monday evening.

Reeve Graham presided, owing to the illness of Mayor Denison. Present Councillors Steacy, Lowry, Spencer, Hunter, Gibbard and Robinson.

The minutes of the last regular meeting were read and confirmed.

A communication was read from the Hydro Electric Railway Association, of Guelph, fixing the date of their annual meeting, and besides asking the Town of Napanee to become a member of the Association, they invited the council to send a delegate to the meeting.

Ordered filed.

A communication was read from D. Pizzariello, asking for the position of Caretaker of the Harvey Warner Park the remuneration to be the same as last year.

On motion of Councillors Gibbard and Lowry, Mr. Pizzariello's offer was accepted.

A communication was read from the city of St. Catherines enclosing a form of resolution, which that city was sending to the Dominion Government. They asked the co-operation of the council by the passing of a similar motion. The resolution dealt with the depletion of cattle in this country owing to the slaughter of young cattle. The resolution asked that the Dominion Government prohibit the slaughtering of cattle under twenty months old, and that no veal be allowed to be sold.

The council did not take kindly to the resolution and it was ordered filed.

W. J. Taylor, night constable, in a communication to the council, refused to tender his resignation, stating that no charges had been preferred, and if any were specified he would court a thorough investigation before the County Judge.

In reference to the above communication a slight explanation is necessary. At the meeting of the council held on March 5th a resolution was passed instructing the Police Committee to ask the night constable for his resignation.

The above communication is the result.

Something must have transpired between meetings of the council to change the opinions of some of the councillors, or else the direct refusal of the night constable to comply with the command of his employers was so blunt and unexpected that they were all struck dumb.

After several minutes of silence, (it was so quiet you could hear yourself breathe), Coun. Gibbard moved that the communication be filed.

More silence. No seconder was forth coming.

After waiting a reasonable length of was so quiet you could hear yourself breathe), Coun. Gibbard moved that the communication be filed.

More silence. No seconder was forth coming.

After waiting a reasonable length of time for the council to take some action on the communication (Chairman Graham called for the next order of business.

And thus the matter stands.

A communication was read from the National Service Board of the Dominion Government asking for information as to industrial conditions in Napanee now, and what they would probably be after the war is over. In order to grapple with the industrial situation in Canada at the conclusion of the war the National Service Board is anxious to get all the facts possible as to what the industrial conditions will probably be. Quite a number of questions are asked and ruled forms are provided for the answers. Messrs E. R. Checkley, Geo. Gibbard and E. J. Roy will be asked to act as a committee to furnish the information required.

Reeve Graham reported that the county rate for this year will probably be 9½ or 10 mills, which means that the town's proportion of the rate will be about $400.00 less than last year. Also that the grant to the town from the County Council for county roads will this year be $746.49 an increase of about $75.00.

Reeve Graham also reported to the council that he had been informed by the Wm. Davies Co. that they were about three weeks behind in their delivery of pork and beans on the Government contract, and the Government was urging them to speed up in production. The Company intend to ask the Government for permission to continue their production on Sundays, or at least every other Sunday. The Davies Co. were of the opinion that if the council would place itself on record as not being opposed to the factory running on Sundays it would pave the way for them, and would help them to keep their deliveries up to contract.

Some of the members of the council were not in favor of granting the request while others put forth the argument that it was just as essential that the army at the front should be well fed, as it was that they should have ample ammunition. Factories producing ammunition continue their operations seven days in the week.

A motion was passed by the council placing itself on record as not being opposed to the privileges asked for by the Wm. Davies Co.

On motion of Coun. Steacy and Coun. Lowry a grant of $75.00 was made to Mr. Brooks, proprietor of the Hay Bay ferry, payable in December of this year.

GERMANS ON THE RUN

Allies Have Achieved Smashing Victory.

Big Advance Began on Saturday and the French and English Have Reconquered More Ground in Three Days Than Was Secured in First Eight Months of Somme Battles.

LONDON, March 20.—Assisted by cloudy weather, the Germans continued their great withdrawal from the departments of Oise and Aisne, in France, Monday, evacuating approximately 500 more square miles of territory along a front that has now extended to 100 miles. The French troops advanced at some points to a depth of twelve more miles; the British to a depth of between two and eight miles. The important towns of Ham and Chauny, the entire Ailette-Soissons line, and twenty additional villages fell into General Nivelle's hands, while the British soldiers liberated forty more villages that had been crushed under the heel of the invader for two years.

The latest French and British gains have been made altogether on a front of a hundred miles or more, and the important towns of Bapaume, Peronne, and Noyon, lying almost in a straight line running north and south, are in the hands of the Entente allies. Between these lying somewhat to the westward, Roye, Nesle, and Chaulnes have been taken. The French are moving in the direction of Ham, on the Somme River, while the British are continuing their advance eastward from both Bapaume and Peronne.

The cavalry of both British and French is now active. Strong cavalry squadrons have been in motion for several days past and have taken a prominent part in the operations, which probably accounts for the rapidity of the Anglo-French advance.

Although there is no actual knowledge of the German plan of retreat, it is presumed in certain quarters that if the pressure of the French and British keeps up they will retire to the powerful line running from Lille to Laon, and including the strongly-defensive positions at Cambrai and St. Quentin. These are all fortified cities, Laon being a fortress of the first class, and the scene of many battles in previous wars. Even at the present rate of progress it would be several days probably before the forces of the Allies would confront these defences.

In their latest operations the British entered the German positions along a front of 45 miles to a depth of several miles up to ten miles in some places, and in addition to occupying Bapaume, Nesle, Chaulnes, and Peronne, took possession of more than 60 villages, gaining over 900 square miles of French territory.

The French gains were made in two distinct sectors, along a front of about 37 miles between the Avre and the Aisne. Their most important capture was the town of Noyon, a strategic point, which lies almost due south of Peronne. North of Soissons, which lies less than 20 miles to the south-west of Laon, they occupied the village of Crouy. Other villages were taken with the object of strengthening their new positions.

WILL HOLD BAGDAD.

General Maude Issues a Historic Proclamation.

LONDON, March 20.—Major-General Frederick Stanley Maude, commander of the British forces, who recently occupied Bagdad in Mesopotamia, has issued a proclamation to the people of the city, declaring that his armies have not come as conquerors, but as liberators.

"Since the days of the Halacha," says the proclamation, "your city and your lands have been subject to the tyranny of strangers; your palaces have fallen into ruins and your gardens have sunk in desolation. Your forefathers and yourselves have groaned in bondage. Your sons have been carried off into wars not of your seeking; your wealth has been stripped from you by unjust men and squandered in distant places.

"Since the days of Midhat the Turks have talked of reforms. Yet do not the ruins and wastes of to-day testify to the vanity of those promises?"

The proclamation says that the British and the Bagdad merchants traded with profit and in mutual friendship for two hundred years, while the Germans and Turks have despoiled them for twenty years and made Bagdad the centre of power from which to assail the power of Great Britain and her allies in Persia and Arabia. It adds that the British Government cannot risk that being done in Bagdad again. It announces that the Arabs have expelled the Turks and Germans and proclaimed Hussein Ben Ali king of Hejaz, Arabia.

The people of Bagdad are invited to co-operate with the British civil representatives accompanying the army in the management of affairs, and to unite with their kinsmen of the north-east and south-west in realizing the aspirations of their race.

Midhat Pasha was a former Turkish politician and for several years in the seventies held the post of Grand Vizier of Turkey.

It is to be noted that the British official communication says: "We have occupied Nesle," and the French communication says: "Our cavalry this morning entered Nesle." While Nesle is apparently on the French line, the British have taken the town of Chaumes, and it is possible that forces from both armies entered Nesle, which lies only a few miles to the south-east of Chaumes.

CHINESE ENTER WAR.

Cabinet Very Active Since the Break With Berlin.

PEKIN, March 20.—After announcing the severance of diplomatic relations between China and Germany, Foreign Minister Wu Ting Fang called a meeting of the Ministers of the Entente nations, and later a meeting of the Ministers of neutral countries. He presented a memorandum at both meetings, requesting suspension of payments of indemnity for the Boxer uprising, consent to an increase of import duties, and modification of China's undertakings which will permit her to station troops at Tien Tsin, along the Tien Tsin-Pekin Railway, and in the Legation quarter as a protection against Germans.

The Dutch Legation is protecting German interests and guarding the German Legation. The German Minister and his staff probably will leave Pekin for Shanghai within five days.

In the light of previous despatches from Pekin, the action taken by the Chinese Foreign Minister indicates that the Government is preparing to enter the war with the Entente. It was said in these despatches that negotiations to that end were under way, and that China hoped by joining the Entente to obtain suspension of the payments of indemnity and permission to increase import duties.

Railway Strike Averted in U. S.

NEW YORK, March 20.—It was definitely stated early this morning that an agreement had been reached which would avert the threatened great railway strike.

The mediators and managers were believed to be awaiting the arrival of the brotherhood chiefs, who had retired, before making the formal announcement that the strike had been averted.

cent Wilson is expected within the next forty-eight hours to indicate definitely that he believes a virtual state of war exists between the United States and Germany.

News received from Plymouth that fifteen men, some of them Americans, had been drowned when the American merchantman Vigilancia was sunk without warning by a German submarine, added, if possible, to the already grave view of the situation held here as a result of the destruction of the Vigilancia, Illinois, and the City of Memphis.

Whether the President will hasten the extra session of Congress already called for April 16 or will take additional steps to protect American commerce without this move was not disclosed Monday night. No official pretended to know his plans, and the general view was that he was still considering the question in his usual deliberate way.

A Cabinet meeting probably will be held and the situation arising out of the new acts of aggression on the part of Germany is expected to be thoroughly canvassed.

In addition to a conference with Secretary of the Navy Daniels, the President saw Secretaries Lansing and McAdoo, and Wm. Denman, Chairman of the Federal Shipping Board, and there was every indication that he was mapping out comprehensive plans for the protection of American interests in any eventuality.

It is generally conceded that already a virtual state of war exists with Germany, in spite of the technical armed-neutrality status of the United States.

A suggestion advanced Monday night was that the President might issue a call for Congress to meet within ten days and in his proclamation point out the new situation facing the nation since he asked for authority to establish a state of armed neutrality.

Released Famous Woman.

PETROGRAD, March 20.—Madame Catherine Breshkovskaya, otherwise known as the Grandmother of the Russian Revolution, has been invited by M. Kerenski, Minister of Justice in the new Cabinet, to return to Petrograd. Madame Breshkovskaya has spent thirty years in exile most of the time in prison. She escaped twice, only to be recaptured. She is 73 years old, and was a daughter of a Russian noble.

Dropped Dead at Work.

ST. THOMAS, March 20.—M. J. McAndrews, travelling engineer on the Michigan Central Railway Lines in Canada for the past eleven years, dropped dead while on inspection work at Victoria Monday morning. He is survived by his wife, who is at present in Fort Wayne, Ind., on a visit, and one son, Robert, at Judson, Mich. The remains arrived here Monday afternoon.

Shadows of History.

"William the Conqueror," read the small boy from his history, "landed in England in 1066 A. D."

"What does 'A. D.' stand for?" inquired the teacher.

The small boy pondered.

"I don't exactly know," he said. "Maybe it's after dark."

Insert Letter "E."

"So you were invited to participate in a profit sharing scheme?"

"Yes."

"How did you come out?"

"I discovered that the purpose of the scheme was not sharing, but shearing."

Irresponsible Spirit.

"Has your husband told you you must economize?"

"Yes," replied Mrs. Flimgilt, "but I'm not letting him bother me. He's one of those people who insist on taking up every fad that comes along."

Mennonites Are Serving.

The guarantee of exemption from military service to Mennonites and Doukhobors must be kept with the original parties. It is another question whether it is applicable to all people who may profess these faiths in the future. The Mennonites, who were parties to the original contract forty years ago, claimed to stand aloof from all public affairs, and renounced all privileges of citizenship such as voting and holding office. The younger generation have departed from these rules, and become electors. This imposes upon them the obligations of citizenship, and many have recognized it by enlisting. The Church elders of the old school ask that these volunteers be sent back home, but they will ask in vain.—Vancouver News-Advertiser.

Prince Praises Canada.

The Prince of Wales attended a meeting of the Canadian committee in care of soldiers' graves. Present were Sir George Perley and other representatives of the Dominion. The Prince mentioned that one hundred and fifty thousand graves were now registered. "Over sixty of four hundred burial grounds have already been laid out, under the advice of the Director of Royal Botanic Gardens. I have seen how beautiful these cemeteries look, with flowers; but it is especially gratifying to me to know that my visit from the front should coincide with the first attendance of this committee of representatives of the Dominion Governments. As the army in the field is now an Imperial army, so this committee should be an Imperial committee, entrusted by the Empire with the task of fittingly and enduringly commemorating the common sacrifice of the best blood of this generation, the sacrifice which forms one of the sacred links of the Empire." The committee subsequently considered questions of marking the graves of the Dominion soldiers who have died in England.

Canadian Won Prize.

The first prize in the Economic Essay Contest, conducted by Chicago University, has been won by Duncan A. MacGibbon, of McMaster University, Toronto. Mr. MacGibbon is the third Canadian to take first honors in one of these contests. His prize winning essay was entitled "Railway Rates and the Canadian Railway Commission." The second, third, and fourth prizes were won by students of American universities, the contest being an international one.

CANADA'S PRODUCTION

Figures for Past Year Show of Dominion.

Canadians ought to themselves fortunate that, the big crop shortage of 1915. The yield of wheat was about 220,000,000 bushels of 1915, or about 45 per cent. Other grains were short. Potatoes were burned up by the dry weather. Dairying was hampered because oppressively high, almost every drawback that expected heaped up trouble for farmer, and yet the total output has a higher money value in the abundant year preceding.

The cause of the extraordinary showing is to be found in prices brought about by a world shortage. Had Canada's crops been local, the blow would have been heavy, but they cope with shortages in the United States, in Argentina, and in Europe. Field crops had a total value of $850,000,000, and the production of the mine, forest, and brought up the total to at least 250,000,000. If we add to manufacturing production at about $2,000,000,000, it is seen that the few millions of men in this country, deprived of men in the army and navy, a large part of our usual force, have been not unheeding the call from Ottawa for more production. In the crop output had been we would have had a great reduction per capita, probably any other nation in the world.

This matter of producing from our rich natural resources the life-blood of Canadian the foundation of Canadian to finance a fairly large part of great war, and of our rapid changing world position. It is unfortunate that fear of conscription, arising out of the National card census, should be frighten United States citizens out West. They would not be liable service even if it were decided last resort, to compel military of certain classes. Canada them, as it wants all other workers, to stick to their work, for own sake and that of the world. The splendid productive effort Canadians ought to bear full through thrift, and increased in enlarging output on per lines. If we keep persistent we shall build up resource power that will see us through post-bellum period of economic turbulence.

HELPED IN OIL FIELDS.

Drillers From Lambton County Were in Roumania.

Oil drillers from Lambton County were in Roumania as oil drillers from Lambton County are in all parts of the earth where wells have to be sunk. Two or three advance agents of the exodus of Canadian oil drillers from Roumania have already been heard from. Their story is a record of good work for the allies and of disappointment for Germany in the oil fields of Roumania.

Roumania's 1915 production of oil was 12,000,000 barrels, value $30,000,000, at $2.50 per barrel. The world's production of oil is 425,000,000. Roumania's output of oil was 3 per cent. of the world's production in 1915. Germany's conquest of the Roumanian oil fields was expected to give the Teutons an immediate supply of 1,000,000 barrels of oil per month from Roumania with the extra supply secured when Germany speeded up production.

Oil drillers from Lambton County report that the Roumanian production of oil will be absolutely nil until new wells are drilled. The Canadian oil drillers worked with the British officers in the Roumanian oil fields. Their letters tell of the complete destruction of machinery and buildings in the Roumanian fields. As for the wells, a Canadian says:

"Iron was dropped down the bore of every well and concrete poured in on top of the iron. When the drill gets through the concrete it strikes the iron. The drill will go round and round. It will be three years before the Roumanian oil fields are again on a producing basis."

Enquiry at the head office of the Imperial Oil Co. to-day did not bear out the theory that Germany could not sink new wells in the Roumanian oil fields in less than three years. Reports of destruction are so complete as to make it certain that Germany cannot get oil without sinking new wells. The Roumanian oil fields oppose a hard formation to the drills and the authorities of the Imperial Oil Co. state that six months is a minimum time for drilling a shallow well in Roumania and eighteen months a minimum time for the deeper wells. British engineers and Canadian oil drillers seem to have combined to disappoint Germany's hopes of securing an immediate supply of oil from the Roumanian wells.

An Echo of 1914.

In its annual trade review The Monetary Times says: Prior to August, 1914, settlements at Montreal, Toronto, Winnipeg, Vancouver, Quebec, Halifax, St. John, and Victoria were made in legals (Dominion notes), but the following month, when money began to get tight, the banks wished to concentrate and centralize cash reserves at convenient points, and accordingly arranged for settlement of daily balances by means of cash only at Montreal, Toronto, Winnipeg, and Vancouver. It was decided that henceforth Quebec, Halifax, St. John, and Victoria should settle by draft on Montreal. But in the beginning of October, 1914, the British Admiralty advised the Canadian authorities that it was likely Victoria and Vancouver would be bombarded as a result of the operations of the German squadron (commanded by Von Spee) in the

Women Once Invalids

Now in Good Health Through Use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Say it is Household Necessity. Doctor Called it a Miracle.

All women ought to know the wonderful effects of taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound even on those who seem hopelessly ill. Here are three actual cases:

Harrisburg, Penn.—"When I was single I suffered a great deal from female weakness because my work compelled me to stand all day. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for that and was made stronger by its use. After I was married I took the Compound again for a female trouble and after three months I passed what the doctor called a growth. He said it was a miracle that it came away as one generally goes under the knife to have them removed. I never want to be without your Compound in the house."—Mrs. FRANK KNOBL, 1642 Fulton St., Harrisburg, Penn.

Hardly Able to Move.

Albert Lea, Minn.—"For about a year I had sharp pains across my back and hips and was hardly able to move around the house. My head would ache and I was dizzy and had no appetite. After taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Liver Pills, I am feeling stronger than for years. I have a little boy eight months old and am doing my work all alone. I would not be without your remedies in the house as there are none like them."—Mrs. F. E. Yost, 611 Water St., Albert Lea, Minn.

Three Doctors Gave Her Up.

Pittsburg, Penn.—"Your medicine has helped me wonderfully. When I was a girl 18 years old I was always sickly and delicate and suffered from irregularities. Three doctors gave me up and said I would go into consumption. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and with the third bottle began to feel better. I soon became regular and I got strong and shortly after I was married. Now I have two nice stout healthy children and am able to work hard every day."—Mrs. CLEMENTINA DUERRING, 34 Gardner St., Troy Hill, Pittsburg, Penn.

All women are invited to write to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass., for special advice,—it will be confidential.

1914, the British Admiralty advised the Canadian authorities that it was likely Victoria and Vancouver would be bombarded as a result of the operations of the German squadron (commanded by Von Spee) in the Pacific Ocean. The banks represented at the Pacific Coast, forthwith, made rush shipments of legals, gold, and a large portion of their own notes to Winnipeg for safety, and it was arranged that Vancouver should settle by draft on Winnipeg. When all danger of bombardment had passed, it was decided that on and after 1st May, 1915, the Vancouver clearing house should settle daily balances by means of legal tenders and the Canadian Bankers' Association ruled that after the same date all other clearing houses in British Columbia (i.e., Victoria and New Westminster) were to settle by draft on Vancouver.

To the Man on the Land.

For two years and a half, war, red and ruinous, has raged through the world, and still no decision has been reached. There is reason to hope that before 1917 closes the struggle for liberty will have been won, or be greatly advanced. Amid the varying phases of this titanic conflict the fact stands out more clearly than ever that agriculture is of supreme importance. Extraordinary measures are being taken by the allied countries to increase and encourage production. It is earnestly hoped that every farmer in Canada will strive to increase the food supply of the Empire. A still powerful and unscrupulous enemy openly avows its intention to try and sink all ships carrying supplies to England during the coming year. In the tremendous strain yet to come a vital factor will be ample and unflinching flow of food to England and France. No matter what difficulties may face us the supreme duty of every man on the land is to use every thought and every energy in the direction of producing more, and still more.—Martin Burrell, Minister of Agriculture.

Saving.

Some women formed a resolution to do something about the high cost of living. "Something," they insisted, with lofty courage, "that will count."

Accordingly they banded together and so perfected themselves in the art of making up their minds that whereas it had hitherto taken a salesgirl an average of two hours to sell a yard of ribbon she could now turn the trick in twenty minutes flat.

The economic saving, of course, was in the aggregate enormous, making itself felt all down the line.

Mapping Our Country.

Although the geological survey has been busily at work for thirty-five years, only about 40 per cent of the land of the United States is yet accurately mapped. W. M. Davis of Harvard university remarks in Science that at the present rate it will take about a century to complete the map.

College in King street were events of importance in those days. Mrs. Cockburn's humorous sketch of their epergne, which formerly had graced the dining-table in the Tuilleries, was worthy of De Maupassant. It appeared when the decoration was purchased that a new dining-table worthy of the epergne was necessary; then chairs worthy of the table; then a carpet worthy of the chairs; then curtains worthy of the carpet, etc., and then the upsetting of a lamp caused the destruction of everything in the room—except the fateful epergne.

The bright cricket afternoons, over which Mrs. Cockburn so graciously presided in the terrace overlooking the well-remembered playground, were social-athletic functions of special interest to Toronto people. Her memory was remarkable, and her recollections of the boys who had distinguished themselves in the class lists or in the athletic field were wonderfully clear.

Mrs. Cockburn was a Miss Zane, the daughter of a distinguished Kentucky family. Louis Philippe when an exile in America stayed for a time with the Zanes, and when later he was on the throne of France and members of the Kentucky family visited Paris their former hospitality was graciously acknowledged. Her father, Mr. Hampden Zane, came to Canada at the time of the Civil War, his lameness unfitting him for military service. It seems the family came from England at the time of the Restoration, when members of the Hampden and Zane families would feel more comfortable in the colonies than in England with the recollection of the Civil War and the names of the Cromwellian leaders still fresh in the minds of the people. Miss Betty Zane's exploit in furnishing an Indian-beleaguered fort with ammunition is one of the heroic episodes of early Virginian history. Mrs. Cockburn's mother was a Miss Churchill, of a well-known Virginian family.

While Mrs. Cockburn, by reason of her long residence in Canada, was thoroughly British, she never forgot her southern origin nor lost her southern sympathies. She was a young girl living in Louisville at the time of the Civil War, and was accustomed to recall incidents of that great struggle. Kentucky was occupied by the North, though the occupation was interrupted by frequent raids. On one occasion she was on a train journeying from the plantation of an uncle north to Louisville. The train carried, besides passengers, some hundreds of Union soldiers. It was stopped by a large body of raiders led by Colonel Morgan, a brother of the still more famous raider. A fusillade ensued and the Union soldiers retired. Miss Zane rushed to the platform of the car eager to see our (southern) soldiers. She was recognized by Colonel Morgan, for the Morgans also were Louisville people. He said that he deeply regretted he had to burn the train, but that he would first remove the baggage of the passengers and provide for their further journey. The young lady told Colonel Morgan that this was the first chance she had had of seeing any large body of southern troops, whereupon the gallant Colonel lined up his cavalry, over a thousand strong, and they sang for young Miss Zane's benefit "Cheer, Boys, Cheer," as she stood on the platform of the car. The incident illustrates the chivalrous spirit of the South even when at war.

Mrs. Cockburn is survived by her daughter, Lady Tait of Montreal. Her

Captured Sixteen Huns.

For taking prisoners fifteen German soldiers and one German officer, Lieut. Godfrey Alan Johnson, Scot '12, former well-known McGill athlete and prominent student leader, has just been awarded the Military Cross, according to advices which reached McGill University.

Lieut. Johnson accomplished the capture of the Germans by making use of the same presence of mind which used to stand him in good stead when he captained the McGill football team on the gridiron back in 1911. It was in the course of the recent operations on the Somme front after the Canadians had captured a German trench. Lieut. Johnson was called up with his Field Company of Canadian Engineers to assist in consolidating the position, and in erecting the necessary defences, those erected by the Germans having been demolished by the Canadian artillery fire. While his men were engaged in this work, he, unarmed and totally unprepared for any hostile attack, proceeded to take a stroll through the former German works. Arrived in front of a former German dugout, he was surprised to see the head of a German officer appear at the door. Although he was without a weapon of any kind, Johnson readily took in the situation, and making a motion towards his hip pocket, caused the German officer to throw up his hands in true "Kamerad" fashion. With the officer there surrendered fifteen soldiers who had hidden in the dugout to escape the bombardment and had been overlooked by the British soldiers in their cleaning-up process.

Lieut. Johnson, besides playing football with the McGill team, was connected with various other undergraduate organizations, including the Students' Union, of which he was vice-president. He was president of the Football Club. Lieut. Johnson's home is in Ottawa, and he went overseas a year ago, and since going to France has been attached to the 11th Field Company, Canadian Engineers.

A Romantic Reunion.

John A. Campbell, a wealthy manufacturer, of Vancouver, B.C., staying with his family at the St. Mark hotel, San Francisco, noticed the name of Charles Campbell, of New York, on the hotel register and inquired about him.

"He is that elderly man seated over there," said the clerk.

John A. Campbell looked him over and approached him.

"Where were you born, stranger?" the Vancouver man asked.

"In Ontario."

"What became of your father and mother?"

"They were lost at sea when I was a small lad?"

"Well, then you're my brother Charley, all right."

And the two aged men embraced, not having seen each other for more than fifty years. Before they were 20 they drifted away from the old homestead in Ontario, lost trace of each other, and while John A. was making a fortune and raising a family in Vancouver Charles was doing likewise in New York.

Both were on pleasure tours with their families when they met, and now the families are enjoying a happy reunion.

Pte. Johnston Writes.

Somewhere in England.

Dear Editor:—As I have the time just at present, I thought I would write you a few lines. Being an old Napanee boy, perhaps you would like to hear from me again. I would rather be back in Napanee than here where I am at present. I came over from France on November 23rd, 1916. I assure you I don't want to go back, anyway. I consider I have done my bit now. I am not sorry, or regret in any way, that I enlisted when I did, at Napanee, August 7th, 1914. I have had some very exciting experiences since my enlistment, and when you get away from the fields of Battle one considers they are well worth going through. Only one thing that spoils it, the "Red Tape." I guess by this you will all know what this "Notorious" game means to a soldier. You will read more about it from me further down in my letter. So far this year I have not experienced any war. That is to say real war. But I have had all I can handle in the line of "Red Tape Wars" here in England. After all I am pleased to still be alive, even though I have been almost through the wars of "Science," and, in fact, the mechanical war of to-day, which we all hope will come to a conclusion this year. I have never had what you would call a bomb-proof position all the time, I have been in service, although I must admit, my class of work is much different from that which our Infantry has to accomplish, and not quite so dangerous, yet, I don't say there is no danger to our work, and in our daily routine, because we get our share of it. The Infantry have to stand in a narrow trench, up to their eyes in mud and water, dodging "Whizz Bangs," and what is worse than twelve inch shells bursting around you almost continually? These men have to stay and stick this out for, from five, six to twelve days at a time, before they are relieved of their trench duties. I have never had to stay in the trenches for any length of time, although my duties call me to be in and out of the front line quite a lot. I have been among French Infantry, their men from their colonies, Belgian Infantry, Imperial, Australian, since I have been in France. They all have the same routine to go through daily, but I can assure you there are no better men, ever put in the front line trenches than our Canadian Divisions. They can do almost anything they are set to do.

Last year the Germans tried the Ypres salient again. They gained a footing for a short while only, but "The Canadians" drove the square heads back again.

A few weeks after the 3rd battle of Ypres, the Canadians moved down to the Somme, and there all their work was carried out with success, especially in the great battle of Thiepval. The artillery commenced their deadly work at 12.30 p.m., and kept this up for one full hour, with shells ranging from six inches to fifteen inches. At the time I was standing at the large cemetery in the one-time village called Poizierus, awaiting at one of our "testing boxes," for communication, to find out if any of our lines had been broken. But every thing went along fine, so I decided to watch the taking of this notorious village. I just reached the ridge, which I had marked out to watch it from, in time to see the Canadians making their glorious dash. From where I laid I could look right down practically into our lines, and so watch every manoeuvre.

At that time German shells were scarce, anyway they did not fire many, until four in the afternoon, when they showered them over like rain. Still our Infantry held each objective gained, and I don't think our casualties were as heavy as were the German. Why I say this is because, our casualties had to be taken a long distance to a clearing hospital and the means of conveyance then were rather scarce, as everything is kept pretty well on the go, down on the Somme front, so we, being the Signal Company, and being in possession of two motor lorries, belonging to our Company transport, and not having any urgent use for our two cars, just then their drivers were ordered to go and draw wounded to the hospital from the advanced dressing station. I was one of the men picked out to act as attendant on the car to the wounded. Our two cars hauled twenty-eight loads of men during that time, and in all these we never had a British soldier. All were Germans, some wounded slightly, some bad, and others who were taken prisoners.

We were not the only ones there with lorries to draw them, there were about fifty altogether, and nearly all their loads were prisoners and wounded enemies. There were small bunches of twenties, fifties, and some larger, marched in from the lines, who were not wounded, but had just given themselves up to the British troops, as prisoners of war.

We made about eight different trips into the trenches on the Somme, and

But none of us envy the life though all their days are in the trenches, but what theirs is a very monotonous nerve-racking life.

The Ford is Economical

THE average man can easily afford a Ford car. It is the most inexpensive car to drive.

20 to 25 miles on a gallon of gasoline is an every-day occurrence. 33 miles is frequently reported by Ford owners. Yearly repair expenses of less than one dollar are not unusual. The car is light in weight, and tires give more mileage on a Ford than on any other car.

You can buy a Ford for yourself and one for your wife for the price of one car at $1000. You can run both Fords at about the same expense as for one larger, heavier car.

You can always sell a "used" Ford at a good price. You have to accept a big reduction for a "used" larger car.

Go and take a ride in the 1917 model. See how comfortable it is. And stylish, too—stream line effect, tapered hood, crown fenders, beautiful finish. You need one for business. Your wife and children need one for pleasure and health.

themselves up to the British troops, as prisoners of war

We made about eight different trips into the trenches on the Somme, and I think the same amount for each of our Division. Our latest Division on the front, made an excellent name for themselves, and only, practically speaking, fresh troops. They captured what is known as "Regina Trench," which our other Divisions, had previously captured, but could not hold. This Division held right on to it, and since its recapture by them, it has never been lost again. We do not hold any ground anywhere near there at present, that is the Canadians, but they are on another part of the front still maintaining their good name, and carrying on their excellent work.

As I said before, I am not in the infantry myself, although my work is in the main branches of the army.

POWER OF RADIUM

It May Be the Force Destined to Destroy the World.

TO DIE IN A BURST OF FLAME.

This Wonderful Element, It Is Claimed,
Will First Emancipate Man and Then
Later on Put an End to Him and All
His Works in a Sea of Fire.

If we place a thermometer into a phial containing a minute quantity of radium bromide it will indicate a temperature 2.7 degrees hotter than the temperature outside of the phial.

What the temperature would be if we substituted radium for radium bromide we have no means of knowing, for science has not as yet produced pure radium, although the lay world prefers to think so. Our closest approach to radium so far has been radium bromide, which if pure consists roughly of three-fifths by weight of the element radium and two-fifths of the element bromine.

Turning back to our thermometer, we also make the discovery that the heat radiated from our speck of radium bromide does not grow less as the days and months—nay, years and centuries—roll by. The mysterious element continues to furnish prodigious amounts of energy, with never a let up or at least not until it has "worked" for 2,500 years, this being the present calculated age of radium.

In order to better comprehend what this means let us compare it with coal.
This is what we find:

According to Professor Soddy, a gram of pure radium evolves 133 calories of heat an hour. In one year (8,760 hours) the same gram of radium evolves 1,160,000 calories. In 2,500 years—the length of time radium will evolve energy—2,900,000,000 calories will be developed. Now, one gram of coal when burned evolves 2,200 net calories of heat. Consequently the energy developed by radium is more than a million times that furnished from the combustion of coal.

Commercial radium salts are at present obtained by working the Austrian pitchblende and lately from the American carnotite found in Colorado. These are practically the only commercial sources known today.

But radium is by no means as scarce
as most people believe. Radium emanations have been found in springs, in the air, in rocks, etc., and this has given rise to an extraordinary theory regarding the evolution of the world.

When the famous Swiss-Italian Sim-plon tunnel was constructed some years ago totally unforeseen circumstances arose which made the work most difficult. Although this tunnel is far above sea level, the heat became unendurable as the work progressed. Artificial cooling had to be resorted to in order to allow the workmen to proceed with their work. Professor Joly then made the astounding discovery that the rocks of the Simplon contained radium, which accounted for the unexpected high temperature within the mountain.

From this Joly has built up a new passed many times through this cycle.

Probably every time the world went up in flames man was at his highest point of civilization, infinitely further advanced than we are today. In an instant every living soul had perished, and for millions of years his like was not to tread again on the hardened earth crust.

This is the new and greater gospel of radium, the element which will emancipate man and which will destroy him and his all later.—H. Gerns-bach

NEW YORK'S DOWNTOWN.

Where Those "Tired Business Men"
Earn Their Daily Bread.

There is a region of mystery into which the metropolitan husband and father vanishes between 7:30 and 8:45
a. m. six days in the week and from which he emerges in the late afternoon. He is welcomed, after the manner of all returning warriors, with a tender solicitude.

Downtown is the trackless jungle into which father plunges to stalk the family's living. After 10,000 years of civilization it is still the same. Anxious eyes follow him from the wigwam till he turns the corner to the railroad station, and fond eyes greet him as he staggers out of the elevator door in his apartment house home with his prey, so to speak, on his shoulder.

Wives will never be reconciled to downtown. It swallows up the man of the house when he would much rather stay at home and play with the children—so he pretends—and it sends him home at night too tired to be agreeable —as he asserts. Thus the little game goes on.

The primitive hunter, I imagine, made believe that he hated to leave the family and go off into the dark forest, and on his return he threw himself before the fire too tired to speak.
Actually, I believe, the primitive hunter as soon as he was out of sight of home broke into a cheerful whistle.—
Simeon Strunsky in Harper's Magazine.

Primogeniture.

The law of primogeniture sends back its roots to the most ancient times. Away back in the patriarchal ages the firstborn son had a superiority over all his brethren and in the absence of his father was in every important sense the head of the house.
Upon the death of the father he became by the unwritten law, which could not be questioned, the priest and lord of the family, and naturally to him fell the property as well as the honors of the household. Primogeni-ture wherever it is found today is the lingering remnant of the ancient custom.

Baffling.

Ezra Haskins, constable of an Eastern Ontario village, had an exalted opinion of his ability as a detective. He read everything he could find on the career of Sherlock Holmes, until he imagined that he had thereby acquired wonderful deductive abilities.

"Now, gentlemen," said he on one occasion to his assistants in a particular case, "we have traced these clues, the footprints of the horse and

An Old Voyager.

One of the few remaining links in the past was severed last week when Narcisse Marion, a French half-breed, who has been living near Red Deer, Alberta, for the last thirty years, quietly passed away at the age of 68 years. He came from Manitoba in the early eighties, and was well known to the old timers in Central Alberta, and to know him was a real pleasure. He was truly representative of the "Voyageurs" referred to by Whittier in his poem, "The Red River Voyager," and to know him intimately was to respect him abundantly. Perhaps in the stillness of the night, around the camp fire, he would give you a glimpse of his beliefs in simple and quaint language. Nor were they very complex or intricate, for he would say that, in substance, he thought that a man who was honest and truthful and kind was living the life that the Great Spirit demanded and his life was more largely governed by his belief than perhaps some are influenced by a much more involved theology.

the Simpson contained radium, which accounted for the unexpected high tem- perature within the mountain.

From this Joly has built up a new theory of evolution, and, while revolu- tionary in the extreme, it is most plau- sible and gains more adherents each year.

Lord Kelvin already deduced that if the earth contained only two parts of radium per million million—and a great deal more is actually found in the rocks and crust of our globe—this minute quantity would raise the tempera- ture of the earth's core 1,800 degrees C. in 100,000,000 years. There being no escape for the imprisoned heat—the earth's crust being an exceedingly bad heat conductor—Professor Joly con- vinces us that as the ages roll by the interior of the earth must become hot- ter and hotter. Finally, after the end of millions of millions of years the crust must give way to this tremen- dous heat from within and the burst- ing earth must go up in flames, becom- ing a burning gas ball, just as we see our sun today.

This will be the "incandescent age," a title suggested by Professor Soddy. After another ten million years the incandescent earth will have expended all of its heat into space by radiation and it gradually will cool. A new crust then begins to form anew. This is what we see at present on the planets Jupiter and Saturn, worlds just begin- ning to cool after emerging from their incandescent age.

Thus we find that worlds do not die. They slowly pass from one stage to another, in a long and interminable cycle. It is more than probable from the above that the earth must have

FEROCITY ON THE STAGE.

Salvini as Othello Was a Terror to His Desdemona.

So abandoned was Salvini at times that it was difficult to believe that the force was at all governable. Though there would have been time just before the fifth act to run over my important scene with him, it was not done. In this act Desdemona's bed was placed in what seemed from in front to be an alcove, but the alcove was not boxed in, and I could stand right up against the bed.

Before the act began Miss Brooklyn, who played Desdemona with sweetness and appealing grace, implored Salvini to be gentle. "Now, Mr. Salvini," she begged, "do be careful, won't you?" He playfully promised. When, after she was asleep, he drew the curtains of the bed aside and gazed down upon her I stood within five feet of him.

The scene that ensued was at such close range very poignant. I did not wonder that she had implored him to be gentle. As he was choking her with the pillows she kept gasping in broken whispers of real terror between her heard outcries and moans: "Oh, Mr. Salvini! Please, please, Mr. Salvini!"

Sickened and fascinated, I watched him, and I did not make connection with the real world again until Emilia—that vigorous and intelligent actress, Mrs. Bowers—made her round off scene at the back of the stage, calling, "Murder, murder!" Then I rushed headlong to Iago, for I knew that I must shortly go on.

Of what happened that first night I have no clear picture. I was dazed by the sudden transition from the darkness where I had stood and seen Desdemona strangled a few feet away to the torches of the stage and a world which in comparison to the one I had just left was palpable, acting. Docilely I hurried after Iago and took my appointed place. But I should not have been in it when the time came had not terror rooted me rather than given me legs, for the ferocity with which Othello ran at Iago and the rage that distorted his features were unexampled. It was one thing to have seen it directed elsewhere and another to find it plunging your way.—"A Super With Salvini," by Algernon Tassin, in

Women's Patriotic Service and Red Cross Work

Through the "U. E. Loyalist" Chapter, I.O.D.E.

Very grateful and appreciative letters have been received this week both from the headquarters of Belgian Relief, Toronto, for a large case of clothing sent off recently, and from the Convenor of Supplies of the Scottish Women's Hospitals for Foreign Service at Edinburgh, for two cases of hospital goods forwarded early in the year.

The remarks following, from the above letters will be interesting reading to all our members and workers. We shall deal first with the one from the Belgian Relief Headquarters, the Corresponding Secretary of which writes: "The quilts, as you have seen from Mrs. Adamson's letter, are of great value; as also clothing of all sorts, if we can only get it to her. Owing to the great difficulty of procuring transportation we shall be unable, for the present, to ship any more second-hand clothing; as the quilts, and what new clothing we are given take the available space. We hope conditions will alter for the better."

The Secretary of the Equipment Committee of the Scottish Women's Hospitals writes, after acknowledging the safe arrival of the two cases: "My Committee desire me to express to you all their most grateful thanks for this continued kind interest in our work. As the goods are all so beautifully marked, we have decided that they ought to go to the Canadian Ward in our French hospital, the Abbaye de Royngmont, and they were accordingly despatched there yesterday with our usual monthly consignment of stores. I hope that you will soon receive an acknowledgement direct from the hospital. We appreciate very much your kindness in working for us, and I am sure that the gifts will be of the greatest use in alleviating the sufferings of the occupants of the Canada Ward."

We should all feel that these communications are most encouraging, and in view of the appreciation with which our supplies are received, should work more earnestly and assiduously to forward as soon as possible, and as large a quantity as we can, of the goods required. As has before been pointed out there is much work, of many kinds, to keep our minds and fingers busy.

The work-room is always open each Thursday and Saturday afternoon until 5.30 o'clock, and those who for any reason find it impossible to be there on Thursdays, are asked to present themselves on Saturdays.

CHAMPION TREE FELLERS.

Beavers Are More Expert Than the Best Lumberjacks.

The most expert lumberjack is inferior to the beaver as a tree feller. He cuts down trees in the most scientific way. He can fell a tree so it will fall toward the pond where he wishes to construct his home, thus saving himself unnecessary work.

After the trees are felled the construction work begins. He works chiefly by night, for he is a nocturnal prowler. The moon is his lantern, the quiet of the night his inspiration, his sharp teeth are his hatchet and chisel, and his little paws are his means of conveyance, his spade, his hammer and his trowel. His hard, flat hairless and scaly tail is a propeller when swimming and a balance when he is cutting timber, for he stands on his hind legs while gnawing down trees.

The beaver is a strict vegetarian, and his diet consists chiefly of barks, tender shoots and water plants.

To flood low grounds the beavers sometimes have to build a dam exceeding fifty feet in length. They usually lay it out with the curve facing upstream. The foundation is built of poles four or five feet long by an inch or two thick. These they lay crosswise, filling all crevices with mud.

The beaver digs up mud with his fore feet, then holds it close to his breast with his fore legs, swims to where he has started his dam, and having deposited it in its proper place beats the mud down with his paws—not with his tail, as has been believed.—St. Nicholas.

Henley and Stevenson.

W. E. Henley once met Robert Louis Stevenson and found his friend distressed because he was not a Voltaire or a Dumas, though he had an equipment which ought to have made him their peer. Stevenson put his "failure" down to the weakness of his lungs. "Perhaps you are right, Louis," said Henley. "I've always felt that if I had not been a blessed cripple I could have taken the earth in my hand and hurled it into the sun."

The Red Cross Society

Mrs. Risens-Buckeley, London, Eng., has sent us a circular with full details as to the Prisoners-of-War Department and we quote the following:

"The Canadian Red Cross now sends every fortnight to each prisoner of war from the Canadian contingent 19 pence worth of provisions, 12 lbs. of bread, and 1 lb. tobacco. Private people may no longer send parcels of food or clothing themselves, but the Society in London will purchase and despatch food parcels for them, to any particular man, with any money contributed. The Society will also do its best to carry out any wishes as to the contents of the parcels. These parcels are sent in the name of the subscribers and acknowledged direct to them. As soon as a prisoner's address is known the Canadian Red Cross sends him also an authorized outfit of clothing consisting of great coat, jacket, trousers, cap, boots, 2 shirts, 2 pairs socks, 3 handkerchiefs, 2 towels, and 2 sets of underclothes. The Society also supplies medicines or other medical comforts, if required."

Mrs. F. S. Wartman, who has charge of this part of the work of the Napanee Red Cross, will gladly receive donations for this worthy cause. The system of "Report Post Cards" is greatly appreciated and assures us that the parcels are thankfully received.

A pretty tea was given at the hall on Saturday by the popular young girls of the Red White and Blue Club, who were dressed in white middie suits with touches of paddy green, in honor of good old St. Patrick. We feel very much indebted to this Club for the valuable assistance given us on many occasions, and again thank them for $19.05, the proceeds of the tea. Miss Mary Costigan has the honor of being the President of the Club for the ensuing year.

Mrs. W. S. Herrington, Convenor of the Woollen Committee, has arranged with the members of her Committee to give a Progressive Euchre in the Armouries on the evening of April 10th.

The usual work-meeting and tea will be held at the hall on Saturday. All are welcome.

According to officials of the Canadian Seed Branch, the Valley, B.C., promises to be a seed garden of Canada. war most of the seeds used here came from Belgium, Germany. This supply largely cut off and the getting sufficient seed a serious matter. One of the difficult problems has been sufficient sugar beet seed for the outbreak of host nearly all shipped from Belgium.

Experiments have been made the raising of seed in the Valley, and this year several loads of sugar beet seed were cured. This, along with other valleys with similar are the most ideal in Canada for seed raising and are the California points, the only ones hitherto able to compete with Europe. Officials in Ottawa it will develop into a big industry. At present it is high, and there is no doubt it will be made. For sugar beet seed is 22 cents as compared with six cents for the war. Whether the growers will be able to compete with the Europeans after the war depends largely on the labor market.

ditions created by the war, the ap- pointment of a Minister of Agriculture to succeed the late Hon. Mr. Duff, who would be able to give his whole time to the work, and who, by practical training, would be able to give leadership in agricultural matters, and the appointment of a Deputy Minister fitted by technical and practical knowledge of agriculture to fill this most important post.

The resolution was rejected by the government, who persisted in their own scheme for the re-organization of the Department including a Minister, a Commissioner, an Assistant Com- missioner and two Deputy Ministers. Sir William, however, said that he himself did not intend to keep the portfolio permanently.

During the course of the debate Mr. Rowell offered on behalf of the Opposi- tion that if the government would appoint the ablest and most outstand- ing man available as Minister of Agriculture, and with him an equally suitable man for deputy minister, they would not oppose such a minister in a bye-election, but would allow him to take his seat without a con- test. The Prime Minister in his reply made no reference to this offer.

George S. Henry, Conservative member for East York, slated as a possible Minister of Agriculture, saw no particular reason why Sir William Hearst should not be head of the Department of Agriculture, because "he had been raised on the farm and had been a student of farming all his life."

G. A. Gillespie, Liberal member for West Peterboro, the well-known dairy- man, called the government's plan a "spare time" arrangement.

Several of the speakers referred to different articles in farm journals criticizing the government's re-organiza- tion plan.

MAGEAU ON THE WAR PATH.

Z. Mageau, member for Sturgeon Falls, has returned to his charges of misappropriation of public money by the government. In a speech filled with definite examples and cases, he gave instances of where waste of public money had occurred in Northern Ontario in the purchase of wire, tools and various roadmaking appliances. He also gave examples of where three or four overseers were engaged and paid to superintend the expenditure of such small sums as $150 or $200. Hon. Finlay Macdormid defended the department.

The most exciting incident in connection with Mr. Mageau's charges, was the comment upon them by William McDonald, member for North Bruce. While Mageau had been talking, the government members had laughed and taken it rather as a joke. Mr. McDonald suddenly said, "When you go before the great jury and the final tribunal of the people at the next election, you will find that they are not laughing at graft charges, nor will they overlook them as perhaps they might have had a tendency to do before the war. Your Mr. Hanna could take $500 from a government contract for Conservative campaign funds, but that sort of thing can't be done to-day. You have New Brunswick in front of you and Manitoba and British Columbia, and for your own good I say to you now, repent before it is too late."

Seed Garden of Canada.

According to officials of the Canada Seed Branch, the Okanagan, B.C., promises to become the garden of Canada. Before the most of the seeds used in Canada came from Belgium, France, and any. This supply has been cut off and the question of sufficient seed has been a matter. One of the most important problems has been to get a good sugar beet seed which before the outbreak of hostilities was all shipped from Belgium and any.

Experiments have been made in raising of seed in the Okanagan, and this year several carloads of sugar beet seed will be produced. This, along with several valleys with similar climate, is the most ideal in Canada for raising and are the equal of foreign points, the only places able to compete with foreign. Officials in Ottawa believe it will develop into a big permanent industry. At present prices are high and there is no doubt that a profit will be made. For instance, beet seed is 22 cents a pound compared with six cents before the war. Whether the Canadians will be able to continue to compete with the European countries the war depends largely on the market.

The mud covered vehicle was nearing the Inn of the Stars when Robin stuck his head out of the window and directed Hobbs to drive slower.

"Whoa!" said Hobbs suddenly. "Ello, wot the 'ell is"—

A dark figure had sprung into the roadway near the horse's heads and was holding up a warning hand.

Robin's head came through the window.

"It is I, m'sieur," said the voice of Marie, Miss Guille's French maid. Disappointment filled his soul.

"What has happened?" he cried, grasping the girl's arm. "Has she changed her mind?"

"Yes, m'sieur. She will not receive you at the Inn of the Stars. She bids you to drive to the end of this street, where there is a garden with a Magyar band and the most delicious refreshments to be had under vine covered"—

"A public garden?" exclaimed Robin in utter dismay.

"Pingari's, sir," said Hobbs. "I know the place well. It is a very quiet, orderly place."

"I am not accustomed to meeting people in public gardens. I"—

"Nor is my mistress, m'sieur. I assure you. May I put a flea in m'sieur's ear? The place is quite empty to-night, and besides there is the drive back to the inn with mademoiselle. Is not that something, m'sieur?"

"By jove!" exclaimed Robin. "Drive on, Hobbs!"

CHAPTER XX.

Pingari's.

PINGARI'S is the jumping off place. It stands at the sharp corner of an elbow in the mountain, with an almost sheer drop of a thousand feet into the quarries below. A low roofed, rambling building, once used as a troop house for nomadic fighting men who came from all parts of the principality on draft by feudal barons in the days before real law obtained.

Hobbs drove bravely into the courtyard, shouted orders to a couple of hostlers and descended from the box.

Robin followed an attendant through a door, down a narrow hallway, up a flight of stairs and out an-

"You are thinking ill of me, and you are unjust. It was as fair for me as it was for you. We played a cautious game. You set about to win my love as you saw fit, my friend, and am I to be condemned if I exercised the same privilege?"

He gave a great sigh of relief. "You are right," he said. "It is my turn to confess. I have known for many days that you are not Bedelia Guille. We are quits."

She laughed softly.

"It doesn't matter," he whispered hoarsely. "I don't care what happens to me, Bedelia, I—I shall never give you up. You are worth all the kingdoms in the world. You are the loveliest, most adorable!"

"Hush! Mrs. Gaston is inside," she informed him quickly. "I do not come alone. An hour ago the inn became quite impossible as a trysting place. A small party from the Regenetz arrived for dinner. Can you guess who is giving the dinner? The great and only William W. Blithers, sir, who comes to put an obstinate daughter upon the throne of Graustark, whether she will or no."

"Did he see you?" cried Robin.

"No," she answered, with a mischievous gleam in her eyes.

"Hide and seek is a bully game," said he. "It can't last much longer, Bedelia. I think it is only right that we should go to your father and tell him that—everything is all right. There is nothing to be gained by further secrecy."

She was watching him closely. "Are you, after all is said and done, sure that you want to marry the daughter of William Blithers, in the face of all the bitter consequences that may follow such an act?"

"Are you through?" he asked, transfixing her with a determined look. Well, then, I'll answer you. I do want to marry you, and, more than that, I mean to marry you. I love!"

"You may tell me, Robin, as we are driving back to the inn together—not here, not now," she said softly, the lovelight in her eyes.

Happiness blurred his vision.

Long afterward, as they were preparing to leave Pingari's, she said to him:

"My father is at the inn, Robin. I ran away from him tonight because I wanted to be sure that our adventure was closed before I revealed myself to him. Take me to him now, Robin, and make the miracle complete."

His fingers caressed her warm cheek as he adjusted the collar of the long coat about her throat and chin. Her eyes were starry bright, her red lips were parted.

"My princess!" he whispered tenderly. "My princess!"

"My prince!" she said, so softly that the words barely reached his ears. "We have proved that Love is the king. He rules us all. He laughs at locksmiths—and fathers—but he does not laugh at sweethearts. Come, "Mme. Gaston returns long ago."

He handed her into the cab a moment later and drew the long, deep breath of one who goes down into deep water. Then he followed after her. The attendant closed the door.

Hobbs was a dependable fellow. He drove far out of the way, passing the Inn of the Stars twice at a lively to be uneasy were the cousins themselves.

The millionaire's table was placed in the very center of the dining room and plates were laid for eight. At the last minute Mr. Blithers ordered the number increased to nine.

"My daughter may put in an appearance," he explained to Lady Simpson. "I have left word at the hotel for her to come up if by any chance she happens to arrive on the evening train."

"Haven't you heard from her, Mr. Blithers?" inquired the austere lady, regarding the top of his head with an illy directed lorgnon.

"We have," said he, "but not definitely."

Two hours later Mr. Blithers looked at his watch again. The party was quite gay; at least 50 per cent disorderly.

"That train has been in for an hour," said the host. "I guess Maud didn't come. I left word for the hotel to call me up if she arrived."

"I also told 'em to send up any telegram that might come," he informed his wife, who merely lifted her eyebrows. They had been lowered perceptibly in consequence of the ebullience of Pericault's cousins.

The vivacious young women were attracting a great deal of attention to their table. Smart diners in the immediate neighborhood appeared to be a trifle shocked. Three dignified looking gentlemen seated near the door got up and left the room.

"We really must be going," said Mrs. Blithers nervously.

"All right," said Mr. Blithers. "Call the cars up, waiter."

Out in the wide, brilliantly lighted foyer a few late stayers were waiting for their conveyances to be announced. As the four departing members of the Blithers party grouped themselves near the big doors, impatient to be off, a brass buttoned boy came up and delivered a telegram to the host.

He was on the point of tearing open the envelope when his eyes fell upon two people who had just entered the hall from without, a man and woman clad in raincoats. At the same instant the former saw Mr. Blithers. Clutching his companion's arm, he directed her attention to the millionaire.

"Now for it, Bedelia," he whispered excitedly.

Bedelia gazed calmly at Mr. Blithers, and Mr. Blithers gazed blankly at the Prince of Graustark. Then the great financier bowed very deeply and called out:

"Good evening, prince!"

He received no response to his polite greeting, for the prince was staring at Bedelia as if stupefied. The millionaire's face was very red with mortification as he turned it away.

"He—he doesn't recognize you," gasped Robin in amazement.

"Who?" she asked, her eyes searching the room with an eager, inquiring look.

"Your father," he said.

She gave him a ravishing, delighted smile.

"Oh, it is so wonderful, Robin. I have fooled you completely. That man isn't my father."

"That's Mr. Blithers, or I am as blind as a bat," he exclaimed.

Robin followed an attendant through a door, down a narrow hallway, up a flight of stairs and out another door upon a small portico, sheltered by a heavy canvas awning. Two men were standing at the railing, looking down upon the impressionistic lights of the sunken city. The prince drew back, his face hardening.

At the sound of his steps the two men turned, stared at him intently for an instant and then deliberately strode past him, entered the door and disappeared. The person in brass buttons followed them.

A soft, gurgling laugh fell upon his ears—a laugh of pure delight. He whirled about and faced—one who was no longer alone.

She was seated at the solitary little table in the corner.

He sprang toward her with a glad cry, expecting her to rise. She remained seated, her hand extended.

"My dear, dear Bedelia," he murmured. "I had almost given you up. Three long days have I waited for you. You?"

"I have never broken a promise, Rex," she said coolly. "It is you who are to be commended, not I, for you see I was coming to Graustark anyway. I should not have been surprised if you had failed me, sir. It is a long way from Vienna to this out of the way?"

"The most distant spot in the world would not have been too far away to cause an instant's hesitation on my part," said he, dropping into the chair opposite her.

"But your personal affairs—your business," she protested. "Can you neglect it so?"

"My business is to find happiness," said he. "I should be neglecting it indeed if I failed to pursue the only means of attaining it. You are happiness, Bedelia."

"What would you sacrifice for happiness?" she asked softly.

"All else in the world," he replied steadily. "If I were a king my realm should go if it stood between me and—you, Bedelia."

"Wait—wait just for a moment," she said, with difficulty steadying her voice. "This night may see the end of our adventure, Rex. Let us think well before we say that it is over. I know, if you do not, that a great deal depends upon what we are to say to each other tonight. You will ask me to be your wife. Are you sure that you appreciate all that it means to you and to your future if I should say yes to that dear question?"

He looked at her intently. "What do you know, Bedelia?"

"I know that you are the Prince of Graustark and that it is ordained that you shall wed one whose station is the equal of your own. You must think well, dear Rex, before you ask Bedelia Guile to be your wife."

"You know that I am"—he began dully, and then stood up, leaning far over the table, a penetrating look in his eyes.

"How long have you known, Bedelia?"

"Since the second day out on the Jupiter," she replied serenely.

He slowly resumed his seat, overwhelmed. She had played with him. She had defied him!

"I know what you are thinking, Rex," she said, almost pleadingly.

her. The attendant closed the door. Hobbs was a dependable fellow. He drove far out of the way, passing the Inn of the Stars twice at a lively clip, and might have gone on forever in his shuttlecock enterprise had not the excited voice of a woman hailed him from the sidewalk.

"Stop! Attendez! You! Man!"

He pulled up with a jerk. The dripping figure of Marie ran up from behind.

"My mistress? Where is she?" panted the girl.

"In heaven," said Hobbs promptly, whereupon Marie pounded on the glass window of the cab.

Robin quickly opened the door.

"What—what is it?"

"Yes, Marie," came in muffled tones from the depths of the cab.

"Mme. Gaston returns long ago. She is beside herself. She is like a maniac. She has lost you; she cannot explain to—mademoiselle's father. Mon dieu, when he met her unexpectedly in the hall he shouts, 'Where is my daughter?' And poor madame she has but to shiver and stammer and—run away! Oui She dash out into the rain! It is terrible. She!"

Bedelia broke in upon this jumbled recitation. "Where have we been, Robin? Where are we now?"

"Where are we, Hobbs?"

"We are just getting back to the Inn of the Stars, sir—descending, you might say, sir," said Hobbs.

"Drive on, confound you."

The door slammed, and the final block was covered in so short a time that Robin's final kiss was still warm on Bedelia's lips when the gallant cab rolled up to the portals of the Inn of the Stars.

Mr. Blithers had had a trying day of it. Besides other annoyances, his wife raked him over the coals for what she was pleased to call his senseless persistence in the face of what she regarded as unalterable opposition on the part of the cabinet and house of nobles.

And so it was that Mr. Blithers, feeling in need of cheer, arranged a little dinner for that evening at the Inn of the Stars. He invited his principal London lawyer and his wife, also his secondary London lawyer, his French lawyer and two attractive young women who it appears were related to the latter, although at quite a distance, and then concluded that it was best to speak to his own wife about the little affair. She said she couldn't even think of going. Maud might arrive that very night, and she certainly was not going out of the hotel with such an event as that in prospect.

"But Simpson's wife is coming," protested Mr. Blithers, "and Pericault's cousins. Certainly you must come. Jolly little affair to liven us up a bit. Now, Lou?"

"I am quite positive that Lady Simpson will change her mind when she hears that Pericault's cousins are going," said Mrs. Blithers acidly.

He thought for a moment. "If that's the case, Lou, you'll have to come, if only to save my reputation," he said. "I didn't think it of Pericault."

Mrs. Blithers relented. She went to the dinner, and so did Lady Simpson, despite Pericault's cousins, and the only ones in the party who appeared to have fooled her completely. That man isn't my father."

"That's Mr. Blithers, or I am as blind as a bat," he exclaimed.

"Is it, indeed? The one reading the telegram, with his eyes sticking out of his head?"

Robin's head was swimming. "Good heavens, Bedelia, what are you?"

"Ah!" she cried, with a little shriek of joy. "See! There he is!"

One of the three distinguished men who had been remarked by Mrs. Blithers now separated himself from his companions and approached the couple. He was a tall, handsome man of fifty. Although his approach was swift and eager, there were in his face the signs of wrath that still struggled against joy.

She turned quickly, laid her hand upon the prince's rigid arm and said softly:

"My father is the Prince of Dawsbergen, dear."

A crumpled telegram dropped from Mr. Blithers' palsied hand to the floor as he turned a white, despairing face upon his wife. The brass buttoned boy picked it up and handed it to Mrs. Blithers. It was from Maud:

We were married in Vienna today. After all I think I shall not care to see Graustark. Channie is a dear. I have promised him that you will take him into the business as a partner. We are at the Bristol.

MAUD.

[THE END.]

Labeled the Judge.

In Captain Burton Deane's book, "Mounted Police Life in Canada," a record of thirty-one years in service, he tells an amusing story of pioneer life. In the "Western Law Times," vol. 1, page 86, published in Calgary, the following item appeared in the late nineties:

"A learned judge of French extraction, not of the Manitoba bench, lately pronounced within 5,000 miles of this city, the following remarkable sentence on a man accused of stealing a horse: 'Prisoner, de evidence is conflicting, but I find you guilty and sentence you to tree months in the guard-room. De evidence, as I say, is very conflicting, but if I was sure, if I was quite sure, dat you stole dat horse, I would give you two years in de Manitoba Penitentiary.'"

The barrister who habitually furnished the law reports to the paper was away from Calgary on a holiday at the time of the foregoing deliverance, and on his return his attention was drawn to the report in question. He did not want to be mixed up in a blood feud with the learned judge for all time, and he decided to take the bull by the horns. He walked to the judge's chamber with a copy of the Law Times in his hand and said, "Judge, I hope you don't think I was capable of putting a false report like this in the paper?"

The judge took the volume from him, read the report carefully, shut the book with a slam, and handed it back to him saying, "You can tell dat I speak as good English as he can."

STITCHES THAT TRIM.

Suggestions About Using Nec-dlework on Small Gowns.

In the days of grandmother, when cheap trimmings—braids, laces and edgings—were not so cheap as they are nowadays, there was real economy in finishing off the little girl's dresses by means of neat lines of herringbone stitch, or tatting. In fact, almost never did children's frocks show any sort of trimming that cost anything but the time taken to make the stitches and the trifling cost of thread.

It is usually more convenient to finish the child's garment entirely before adding the stitches. Sometimes it is more convenient to buy inexpensive, absolutely untrimmed frocks and rompers for the children and bring them home to double their value by a half hour or so spent in finishing them with handwork.

To begin with, if you do not know

Oyster Sandwiches.

These are a fine delicacy suited to the late supper party. Select large oysters, drain and dry carefully. Meanwhile soften some butter and season some cracker crumbs with salt and pepper. Then, holding each oyster on a fork, dip it into the crumbs, then into the melted butter and again into the crumbs. Arrange them in an oyster broiler (which differs from an ordinary broiler in having the wires closer together) and broil over a hot fire for about two minutes, turning every few seconds. They should not be shriveled, but plump, soft, juicy and tender. Use as a filling between buttered slices of crisp toast and dress before putting the sandwiches together with a little tartar sauce.

Chocolate Cookies.

One-half cupful of butter or three-eighths cupful of manufactured shortening, one-half cupful of sweet milk, one cupful of chopped walnuts, one cupful of brown sugar, one egg, two teaspoonfuls of cocoa, one-half teaspoonful of soda, one cupful of seeded raisins, one and one-half cupfuls of flour. Cream sugar and shortening together; add milk, egg, walnuts, raisins and flour, which has been previously mixed and sifted with the soda and cocoa. Drop by spoonfuls on buttered tins and bake in a quick oven.

YOUR FURS.

How to Care For Them So They Will Look New and Wear Long.

Many women have an idea that it is not necessary to take special care of good furs. They think that because the latter are a good quality they will stand more or less rough treatment and that they can be subjected to all sorts of variable conditions of weather.

Never hang wet furs near the fire to dry. In the natural state the animal, whose pelt has been converted into a coat or muff or scarf, dries itself in the open, and this fact should be borne in mind.

The bright sun is also harmful to good furs. In winter little harm is done in this direction, but furs carried to warm climates and worn even occasionally in a garish light are likely to lose the luster which comes to them, not only from natural causes, but also from the scientific dressing and dyeing to which many of the fashionable peltries are subjected.

To begin with, if you do not know how to make the herringbone or feather stitch practice with a piece of heavy embroidery twist and a piece of gingham or kindergarten cloth, such as you use in making the children's clothes. Practice until you have acquired a uniform stitch. There is an infinite variety in the length and the angle of the stitch, and it doesn't much matter which you adopt so long as it is always uniform. This stitch is useful for trimming the neck and wrist lines of the frocks. If the dress is made at home simply baste the skirt hem and use this stitch by way of hemming and trimming the skirt at the same time. A simple chain stitch made with coarse cotton is another good way of finishing hem, cuffs and collars.

Even woolen dresses can be trimmed in this way. Our grandmothers made herringbone stitches in colored wool on the brown holland everyday frocks their little girls wore, and, though we do not have to give our children brown holland frocks these days, this sort of colored woolen trimming is very pretty. Besides that, it is very smart just now, and for that reason, as well as because it is inexpensive, deserves attention. It is not difficult to learn the sort of wool embroidery that trims the new frocks, and a little practice with bright wool threads will make anybody an adept at doing it.

Chicken Souffle.

This is also very nice for left over chicken. The chicken is mixed with chopped parsley, about a tablespoonful to a pint of chicken. Melt a tablespoonful of butter in pan and mix with flour, adding a pint of milk and stirring until the mixture boils. Then add half a cupful of dry breadcrumbs and cook a little longer. Remove from the fire and add the chicken hashed very fine. Season with salt, pepper and cayenne if liked. Add the well beaten yolks of three eggs and mix well. Place in a butter greased baking pan and bake for twenty minutes in a quick oven. Serve very hot.

One cupful ground suet, one cupful breadcrumbs, one cupful flour, one cupful sugar, one cupful seeded raisins, one cupful currants, one-half cupful finely cut citron, one-half cupful finely cut figs, one tablespoonful finely cut orange peel, one tablespoonful finely cut lemon peel, one-half teaspoonful ground cinnamon, one-half teaspoonful ground ginger, one-fourth teaspoonful ground cloves, one-fourth teaspoonful grated nutmeg, one-fourth teaspoonful ground mace, one tablespoonful salt, one cupful grape juice or any fruit juice. Put the suet, breadcrumbs, flour, sugar, cinnamon, ginger, cloves, nutmeg, mace and salt into a bowl and mix thoroughly. Wash and dry the raisins and currants and then add the figs, the citron, orange and lemon peel; add one cupful water and the fruit juice and mix thoroughly. This should be a stiff dough. If there is not enough moisture add more water. Brush mold or kettle with a little melted butter and put in the pudding. The mold should not be quite full. Boil four hours as soon as they are filled. These should be prepared a week ahead of time and cooked; then boil one hour before serving. You may add one-half cupful chopped and blanched almonds to this if desired. Serve hot with hard or lemon sauce.

Recruits Wanted for Production

Just as surely as lack of food is strangling Germany day by day, so plenty of food is winning the victory for the allies. The French armies, for instance, were never better fed than now, for France cannot forget the awful lesson of 1870—the failure of her food supply. To this she attributed the loss of that war.

To feed the French soldiers around Verdun, more than 25,000,000 pounds of food a week were required. This gives a faint idea of the colossal task of feeding an army. Canada and Britain have a huge army of fighting heroes on the line; every man must have plenty of food, in spite of a world shortage. Upon Canada's food production all principally rely.

The Farmers of Ontario Urgently Need Help

The Department of Agriculture appeals to men and boys to enlist in the farm help campaign. The Department appeals to men unfit for military service, or who find it impossible to enlist in the army. Do your "bit" by helping to increase production of foodstuffs. This is your hour of opportunity.

The farmers of Ontario need the help of retired farmers, of men following no occupation (retired), of business men who can spare a portion of their time. We appeal to all who can so arrange their ordinary affairs to plan to help some farmer friend, particularly in seed time and harvest.

Confer with your county District Representative of the Department of Agriculture, or write, "Farm Help Campaign," care Department of Agriculture, Toronto.

Handy Hog Catcher.

A Texas hog man describes a hog catcher which he finds very handy. "To make this hog catcher, take a piece of gas pipe about three feet long and slip into the end of it an iron handle of an old shovel or scoop. Usually a three-quarter inch gas pipe will fit an iron handle of this kind. Cut a hole about an inch long in the pipe six inches below the handle. Then take a piece of wire, preferably a twisted clothes-line, as it is softer and more pliable, and make a loop about six inches across in one end—a loop that will not slip. Pass the other end into the lower end of the pipe and let it come out at the hole below the handle. Make another loop in the wire at this end so that when this upper loop is pulled up even with the end of the handle the knot of the lower loop will be well up into the pipe. To use the catcher, pull the wire loop down as far as it will come, slip it over the hog's nose when he opens his mouth, and pull up on the loop at the handle. This brings his nose up against the end of the pipe. You can easily hold a hog of almost any size, with one hand."—Kansas Farmer.

Loss of Humus Spells Exhaustion.

The loss of humus is usually the most potent factor in the so called exhaustion of soils.

Chicken Pie.

Pare six medium sized potatoes, cut in small pieces, cook until tender, but not broken, then add two cupfuls of chicken meat and half a cupful of fresh pork, cooked and cut in small pieces. Cover with a crust made as follows: Sift three teaspoonfuls of baking powder with two cupfuls of flour, add two tablespoonfuls of shortening and half a teaspoonful of salt. Rub thoroughly together and mix with one small cupful of milk. Put on a floured board and press out with the hands to the size required to cover the chicken pie. Bake twenty minutes.

Beechmont, Ont.—"I feel to tell what Dr. Pierce's medicine has done for me."

I feel like a new woman. I can't recommend these medicines to one suffering as I did."—Mrs. L. E. Beechmont, Ont.

An imitation of nature's method of placing waste of tissue, enriching blood and increasing it is when you take an alteration of herbs and roots made with wine, without the use of alcohol. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery vegetable medicine coaxes the functions and helps in the assimilation of food, or rather takes from the nutriment the blood requires.

Pure blood is essential to good health. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery not only cleanses the blood of impurities but it increases the activity of the blood-making glands, and enriches them with an abundant supply of pure blood. It thus cures scrofula, eczema, boils, pimples and other eruptions of the skin.

SOW GOOD SEED

There is no greater folly than that of planting seed that is inferior, for it will not grow in total disregard of the principle of successful farming. Do not do it. It is better to cheerfully twice the price of the same kind of seed used in the spring than to use seed that will not grow or that will not well after it does grow. Good plowing, good soil, good season, good care—all these are nothing unless the seed is good. If the home grown seed is inferior, account on account of a poor sowing season, get some more. And it is a strong hint to you that the quicker you decide what you want and buy it the better the cause seed is going up. Every one clamoring for so little high testing seed to sow this is sure to be the case in the future. Farming.

Making the Little Farm Pay

By C. C. BOWSFIELD

Facts and arguments multiply in fa- vor of land ownership and diversified farming. At the same time farms are rapidly advancing in value, and people must make smaller areas of land serve their purpose.

Farmers who are not capitalists oc- cupy too much land. They would do better farming and attain better results on smaller tracts. The little farm re- quires less investment and drudgery than the large one.

It affords a more enjoyable existence and tends to stimulate the interest of young people in progressive agricul- ture.

WORKING ON THE LITTLE FARM.

ture. To reduce the size of farms will make it easier for poor men to acquire land, consequently the number of own- ers must increase.

With more owners and renewed in- terest our rural population will be aug- mented. By increasing the production of commodities per acre we will have heavier exports and the prosperity of the nation will be enhanced. These considerations are worthy of our at- tention and highest intelligence.

The little farm proposition is appeal- ingly strong both to the man in the country and the resident of the city. It is, in fact, the hope of the American farmer and of the business world to- day. Through this modern system the rural family is to escape much of its drudgery and the city family is to ob- tain commodities at lower prices. By the new method of intensive and di- versified agriculture country life is to become easier and more attractive both to the young and to the old.

R FLETCHER'S
STORIA

Big farms are all right for those who are equipped to handle them properly, but they are not desirable for people who have not capital enough to hire plenty of help and organize in a businesslike way to secure good results.

The man with a small farm not only starts with a less expensive equipment, but he is inspired to get substantial results from his few acres. He is quite sure to study out the more profitable methods of managing land. The following table, based on present prices, shows what a vast difference there is in the acreage value of crops on which the labor and cash outlay are much the same:

	Gross.	Net.
Wheat per acre .....	$ 40	$ 25
Field corn .....	50	30
Potatoes .....	150	100
Onions .....	250	200
Cucumbers .....	200	150
Strawberries .....	300	200
Cherries .....	200	150
Apples .....	150	200
Clover .....	30	25
Alfalfa .....	60	50
Timothy .....	25	20

With the ordinary family no help is needed on a little farm except where there is a considerable crop of fruit or vegetables, for which there is a ready cash return sufficient to meet the expenses of operation.

The owner of forty acres who produces for market fifty hogs, 100 lambs and sheep, 500 chickens, the output of a dairy of ten cows and a variety of vegetables will double discount the exclusive grain raiser or dairy manager. Instead of risking his year's time and his whole investment on one product, he divides his risks into eight or ten parts. Therefore if his grain is a failure he can stand the loss because he has various other interests to fall back on. If he has bad luck with his hogs and chickens or the dairy he still has an assured income from many other sources.

To Keep Harness In Good Condition.

To keep harness in the best possible condition apply oil frequently, advises C. W. McCampbell, associate professor of animal husbandry in the Kansas State Agricultural college.

"Oil protects the harness from water and all kinds of weather and makes it more pliable," said Dr. McCampbell. "The farmer puts oil on harness for the same reason that he puts it on his boots. It softens the leather, making it wear longer; prevents water from rotting it and keeps the leather from getting hard and cracking."

Orange Marmalade.

Three thin skinned oranges, one cupful of sugar, two tablespoonfuls of lemon juice. Wash the oranges, cut in half and remove the pulp with a teaspoon. Cut the rind in quarters, then remove all fiber; put the rind in two quarts of cold water for twenty-four hours. Drain, cover with fresh water and boil until tender. Drain, press out all water; shred very fine; add to the pulp; add the sugar and boil slowly one hour. You can put the rind through food chopper and add the lemon juice to the rind.

Love Match.

The popularity won by the young Countess Nadejda Torby, daughter of H. I. H. the Grand Duke Michael of Russia and the Countess Torby, has been a feature of English society for some years past; notably, too, in lawn tennis circles, Countess "Nada" being an enthusiastic devotee of the game. So very wide interest was shown in her marriage to Prince George of Battenberg, which took place recently at the Chapel Royal, London.

The Countess Torby, mother of the bride, was of extraordinarily romantic descent. Her father was Prince Nicholas of Nassau, who in his day defied royal authority by contracting a morganatic marriage with the daughter of the great Russian poet Pushkin, who was himself a grandson of Peter the Great's black slave Hannibal.

It is only necessary to look at the Countess Nada Torby to understand that Prince George wanted her for herself alone. She is a beauty of the most entrancing type. She has large dark eyes, shaded by long lashes; a sensitive and delicately molded face, a very winning expression and a mass of black hair. With all her charms she is simple and unaffected. The grand duke has lived with his family for many years at an English estate called Keele Hall, and he and his children have mingled freely among the people of the neighborhood. The grand duke is a member of the local board of education. He is known to many Amer-year partake more of the nature of beautiful dreams than of actual necessities. Georgine, satin, velvets, plaited and striped soft silks and kitten's ear cloth are the popular materials. The majority of these attractive garments are made with a medium waist line with decorated fanciful girdles attached. They are plaited, tucked, gored or gathered to let in the fashionable fullness. Some of them are even smoked.

The separate skirts this year come in all possible shades and colors and in every fanciful combination that the mind of man could devise. There are plum colored skirts and all shades of blue ones; there are burgundies, browns, greens, corals, orchids, wines and grays and every conceivable plaid and stripe that can be evolved from combinations of these colors. Fashion runs riot in skirt hues this season.

Snowdrop Cake.

Beat three eggs, using lightest colored yolks; add a little cream or milk and flavoring. Rub four ounces of butter into half a pound of flour, stir in four ounces of sugar, mix by adding the eggs and milk and stirring thoroughly, but lightly; then scatter in a teaspoonful of baking powder. Turn the mixture into a greased cake tin, put into a hot oven, reduce the heat after a little while and let the cake bake gradually. When cold coat with sugar icing, inserting a few snowdrops at intervals just before serving.

Baked Potatoes au Gratin.

Bake large potatoes until well done, cut lengthwise, scoop out, mash well, add butter, a little milk or cream, salt and pepper and whip until fluffy; re-fill and sprinkle with grated cheese. Put back in the oven for the cheese to melt and brown slightly. These potatoes served with a roast of veal are a real addition to the meal.

WHAT IS WALLADERMA ?

Walladerma is a winter balm—not a thick cream but a thin liquid that cures chapped hands and all roughness of the skin. Although we have 33 skin creams we unhesitatingly recommend Walladerma. Price 25c. the bottle — at WALLACE'S, Napanee's Drug Store.

Obituary—

In the death of Miss Jane Miller, at Tamworth, March 15th, there passed into paradise of God, the only surviving sister of Mrs. Paul Hunter, Tamworth. The deceased was in her eighty ninth year, and was born in Carlisle, England, and came with her parents out to this country in her tenth year. The family moved from Kingston to Odessa, and from thence to Sheffield, where they settled, in 1817. Some years afterwards the Miller family moved to Shannonville, and Jane lived with her brother, Joseph,
who predeceased her by two years.
Their home was for a generation, the centre of English Church life in the district. The clergyman always found a resting place there, and received fresh encouragement in the Master's work. Jane was a staunch church-woman well known for her good works. A few years before she died, her sight grew weak, and she gradually lost the sight of both eyes, which she tried to bear with Christian grace and resignation. After her brother's death, she returned to Tamworth and lived with her sister, where she died.
After the funeral on Saturday, which was conducted by the Rev. Rural Dean Jones, the body was taken direct to Shannonville for interment, accompanied by her nephew, Mr. John Hunter.

SOME EGG FACTS.

At the present time when our every energy and effort is being put forward to increase the production of food products, and make Canada more than ever before a large factor in the winning of the war, one's attention naturally turns to the food stocks available, and the waste evidenced in their handling. With no commodity is waste so apparent as it is in the handling of eggs.

During the past few years special endeavour has been made to bring this matter to the attention of producers and the wholesale trade. This appeal, however, is addressed more particularly to retailers, many of whom do not realize the extreme perishability of eggs.

It is a common practice at this season of the year for many retailers to advertise the increasing egg supply and the rapidly falling prices, by displaying piles of eggs in their store windows. The eggs thus exposed in many cases come under the direct rays of the sun, and are subjected to a temperature behind the plate glass window of about 100 degrees. The excessive heat resulting causes serious deterioration through evaporation accompanied by loss of flavour. Further at this time of the year a large percentage of the eggs marketed are fertilized, and as it is common knowledge that a temperature of 70 degrees is sufficient to start incubation, the possibility of serious deterioration will be readily seen.

It is good business to advertise, but window displays of eggs defeat the aim of the advertiser, in that the resulting deterioration of the eggs causes dissatisfaction among consumers, and so retards consumption. Eggs should be kept in the cleanest, coolest, driest place in the store, removed from mustiness, foul odors, or other sources of contamination.

The food value of eggs, their freedom from waste, the saving in time, labour, and fuel in their preparation, and the favourable way they compare in price with other articles of food places them in an important place in the diet of our people. Now, as never before in the history of the Dominion, the conservation of food supplies must be one of our chief considerations, and the waste now apparent in the handling of eggs, that can be eliminated by careful and more up-to-date methods, is a consideration that will appeal to every citizen, who has at heart the best interests of his fellow citizens, his country, and the Empire as a whole.
